NEW ES3 FACILITY SELECTED BY GEORGIA-PACIFIC AS DISTRIBUTION CENTER FOR NORTHEAST AND MID-ATLANTIC REGION

Keene, NH; March 20, 2003 - ES3, LLC announced today that it has entered into a multi-year agreement with Georgia-Pacific Corp. under which Georgia-Pacific will utilize ES3's York, Pa., facility as a distribution center for Dixie products supplied to customers in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic regions.

"We are pleased to partner with one of the largest paper goods manufacturers in the country in an effort to improve and streamline its supply chain," said Geoff Davis, Executive Vice President of ES3. "Georgia-Pacific's product offerings coupled with ES3's ability to fill consolidated orders within 24 hours creates a powerful, customer-focused relationship. This is another important step forward in our pursuit to make the packaged goods supply chain more efficient."

"We believe that this collaboration with ES3 will help Georgia-Pacific contain costs, lower inventories and provide higher service levels benefiting our customers. By outsourcing to ES3 these activities, Georgia-Pacific can also focus on its core competencies and operate leaner and more effectively," said Paul Frederickson, senior vice president of operations support for Georgia-Pacific Consumer Products.

ES3 has redesigned the consumer packaged goods supply chain by fundamentally changing the way that products move from manufacturer to market. ES3 provides the industry with the scale, technology and expertise necessary to realize savings from a collaborative, just-in-time distribution solution. ES3's state-of-the-art automated facility in York will deliver multi-manufacturer consolidated orders to customers throughout the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic regions within 24 hours by utilizing electronic information exchange (EDI, XML or direct machine-to-machine communications) and automation. Manufacturers and their customers have real-time visibility to inventory and are able to monitor shipments from end-to-end through ES3's web-based reporting and proprietary supply chain systems.
